What's My Story?

I've been in the Business Products industry since I was eleven years old helping my father with his company, Waldeck's Office Supplies in San Francisco. I did deliveries, worked the cash register and anything else that needed to get done. I treasure the time I worked with my father and learned a lot about the people that drive this city. I sell to all the unique and wonderful companies in the San Francisco Bay Area focusing on professional services, nonprofits, startups, tech, construction, architectural and design firms as well as cities, counties, schools and special districts. No matter the business you are in I am certain that I can assist you with your business product needs. I am extremely passionate about helping companies create healthy, sustainable and fun workplaces and Indoff helps me accomplish this goal. Indoff offers me financial strength in the market place, but they also assist me in operations to ensure your products arrive when requested. We now offer a selection bigger than ever while being able to maintain the local expertise and personal attention that your business deserves. Don't get lost in the Amazon, stay local in the bay with Cliff's Happy Healthy office.

Indoff does not inventory product, but they do maintain relationships with hundreds of manufacturers, wholesalers and service providers in order to offer the right solution to their customers – not the one we happen to represent or inventory. Indoff's systems allow their Sales Partners to quickly solve their customers' problems, and Indoff's administrative expertise allows them to efficiently process large volumes of business. This service allows the Indoff Partners to provide their hyper-local expertise while having the backing of a nationwide company.
